

I had heard that MTV was going to be rolling out their new TV show called 'MTV Beach House.' It was the first reality TV show they were doing. Participants were basically playing sports and hanging out at the Beach House while the VJ's introduced songs. I found the house where they were taping the show on the ocean on dune road in the Hamptons. Me and my fellow classmate positioned ourselves across the street at the waterside restaurant. It was there I conceived the idea of writing a top-ten list on back of a waiters check. I created the 'top-ten reasons why you wanted us to be on MTV.' After I hand wrote that we went across the street and handed it to the security guards. They, in turn, handed it over to the producers of the show. The next day, I received a phone call telling me and my classmate that we sounded like a lot of fun and that they wanted us to appear on the show.

The follow shows my actual hand-written top-ten list on the back of a waiters check.

Several photos of me on the show is also included in this presentation.
